

Project 10 Focuses on the Following Four Initiatives

One - Capacity Building: Project 10 provides training and technical assistance, including product development and dissemination, to assist school districts and other transition stakeholders in building capacity to implement secondary transition.

Two - Interagency Collaboration: Project 10 provides support for developing, maintaining, and enhancing state and district-level interagency activities, as well as partnering in collaborative activities.

Three - Transition Legislation and Policy: Project 10 provides training and technical assistance, including product development and dissemination, related to state and national legislation, State Board of Education Rule, and policy, including compliance requirements to transition stakeholders.

Four - Student Development and Outcomes: Project 10 provides training and technical assistance, including product development and dissemination, to transition stakeholders on a variety of transition-related topics, such as self-determination. The Project supports districts in using evidence-based practices of student development in improving transition outcomes.

State Performance Plan (SPP) Transition-Related Indicators Project 10 provides trainings, technical assistance (TA) and resources related to each of these indicators.

Indicator 1: Graduation Rate

Indicator 2: Dropout Rate

Indicator 13: Individual Educational Plan (IEP) Compliance

Our Mission

The mission of Project 10: Transition Education Network is to assist Florida school districts and relevant stakeholders in building capacity to provide secondary transition services to students with disabilities in order to improve their academic success and post-school outcomes.

Project 10 is the primary conduit between the Florida Department of Education (FDOE), Bureau of Exceptional Education and Student Services (BEESS) and school district personnel in addressing law and policy; effective practices; and research-based interventions in the area of transition services for youth with disabilities.

Project 10: Supports

Training and Technical Assistance

Project 10 supports school districts and school-based personnel, as well as other relevant stakeholders, including parents, agencies and community organizations as they assist students with disabilities to successfully transition from school to adult life.

- Project 10 staff are available to provide trainings and technical assistance (TA) by request to school districts and agencies (please visit our Training by Request web page). Training and TA are available on a variety of transition-related topics. Support is available in-person and/or virtually.
- Project 10 collaborates with school districts, agencies and community partners to provide trainings for families.
- While Project 10 is not a direct service provider for students, Project 10 provides training and support to transition stakeholders who directly serve students.

Resources

Project 10 has developed numerous resources to assist with the transition planning process. Many resources are available on the Project 10 Publications web page, including translated versions of some publications. Additional resources are available through Project 10 staff as part of specific trainings and technical assistance.

Project 10 Website Highlights

The Project 10 website has a wealth of information on transition and the Project 10 Website Handout is a helpful tool to assist with navigation.
